Heya,

I meant to get this back to you sooner, but it just didn't happen. Overall it looks pretty nice, just a few comments/suggestions...

Hello all,

I was hoping to have this closer to completion before sending it around. However, as my priorities have shifted for at least the next week or two, I am hoping that some/ all of you can provide some comments on the information in the attached with which you are familiar, preferably within that same time frame. I welcome any comments, particularly on the in-process figures and tables, and the rough draft interpretations summarizing the more reliable studies. I will continue to work on this as I have time, so please do not spend a ton of time editing particular phrasing, etc. It is 10 pages (it will probably be closer to 15 after I add in information from the less reliable studies).

Thank you,
Andrew
